19 Wilbur is a confident and happy teenager who often tries new things. He is keen to take part in activities and continues to try his best even if he is struggling to learn new things. His parents often say they are proud of him for trying his best and that they want him to be happy.

His best friend, Oliver, is not as confident as Wilbur. Oliver does not try many new things, and often gets upset when he cannot do something. Oliver says he is going to be a doctor like his Dad. Oliver's parents say they are proud of his achievements and that they want him to do well.

Assess how well positive regard (Rogers, 1951) can explain the behaviour of Wilbur and Oliver.

17 Maisy struggles with examination revision. She feels that no matter how hard she tries, her marks on tests do not improve. Maisy believes she is wasting her time in college and she will not achieve anything.

The teacher tells Maisy she should be proud of how hard she tries and not just focus on her test results. He told Maisy the most important thing is enjoying the subject and being herself.

Explain how unconditional positive regard may help improve the way that Maisy views herself.
