Question number	Indicative content	Mark
33	AO1 = 3 marks; AO2 = 3 marks; AO3 = 3 marks Markers must apply the descriptors in line with the general marking guidance (on pages 2–3). Due to the intrinsic links between the skills, if a response evidences performance against only one trait/skill it will be for demonstrating knowledge and understanding. An answer displaying qualities of AO1 only, cannot be awarded more than the top of Level 1, no matter how strong the performance is in AO1. AO1 • Freud (1909) suggested that Little Hans' phobia of horses with blinkers was an example of displacement and was actually a fear of his father who also wore glasses. • Freud (1909) stated that Little Hans' phobia developed just as he had reoccurring dreams about losing his mother. • Freud (1909) suggested that Little Hans was going through the Oedipus complex meaning the horses represented an unconscious fear of his father who is a rival for his mother's affection. AO2 • Joel's fear of police officers could be displacement, and the police officer could represent his father as both the police officer and his father wore glasses. • Joel was having reoccurring dreams about being in a shop alone and looking for his mother who he could not find suggesting he is worried about losing her. • Joel is likely to be going through the Oedipus complex, so the police officers are representations of his father who then takes his mother away from him by driving her away in a car. AO3 • Joel's fear of police officer may instead be due to association due the incident he observed where a police officer chased a criminal and ran past his father and knocked his glasses off. • There are number of similarities between Joel and Little Hans including his age, the types of dreams and also the anxiety he suffers which means that the case study can account for Joel's phobia of police officers. • The Little Hans case study is just one male so his experiences cannot be generalized to Joel as they may be unique to him alone, so may not account for Joel's phobia. Level	Mark	Descriptor
	0	No rewardable material.
Level 1	1–3	• Demonstrates isolated elements of knowledge and understanding of a limited range of psychological ideas (AO1). • Provides little or no reference to relevant psychological ideas related to the context (AO2). • Limited attempt to deconstruct relevant psychological ideas. Limited consideration of supporting/refuting evidence, leading to generic judgements (AO3).
Level 2	4–6	• Demonstrates mostly accurate understanding of some relevant psychological ideas (AO1). • Provides some reference to relevant psychological ideas related to the context but this may be limited or lack relevance at times (AO2). • Deconstructs relevant psychological ideas using mostly logical chains of reasoning. Some consideration of supporting/refuting evidence, leading to a judgement (AO3).
Level 3	7–9	• Demonstrates accurate and thorough knowledge and understanding of relevant psychological ideas (AO1). • Provides sustained reference to relevant psychological ideas related to the context (AO2). • Deconstructs relevant psychological ideas using logical chains of reasoning. Sustained consideration of supporting/refuting evidence, showing an awareness of competing arguments, leading to a judgement (AO3).

35	AO1 = 3 marks; AO2 = 3 marks; AO3 = 3 marks Markers must apply the descriptors in line with the general marking guidance (on pages 2–3). Due to the intrinsic links between the skills, if a response evidences performance against only one trait/skill it will be for demonstrating knowledge and understanding. An answer displaying qualities of AO1 only, cannot be awarded more than the top of Level 1, no matter how strong the performance is in AO1. AO1 • Freud suggested Hans's anxiety dream was about losing his mother which Hans displaced onto an object (the horse). • Little Hans' phobia of a horse was interpreted to be a representation of how he feared his father. • Freud claimed that Hans was not a normal child, that he was prone to neurosis. AO2 • The boy's dream about being unable to find his mother may represent his fear that she will leave him • The boy does not mention his father to Sean so the bats may not represent him. • The boy Sean is working with is a happy and normal child whose only worry is about his mother leaving him. AO3 • There are similarities between both the boy and Little Hans fearing the loss of their mother so the case study can help explain the reason for the boy's dreams • The fear of bats may be as a result of a real-life experience with a bat where the boy has developed a phobia, so he may have been classically conditioned to fear bats. • Little Hans cannot be generalised to all children as the case is of just one child, therefore it may not represent the boy's experiences or dreams.	(9)

Question number	Answer	Mark
32	One mark for identification of each way (maximum two marks). One mark for justification which must be linked to the way identified (maximum two marks). For example: • Barbara believes that Amy's dreams represent a fear of being in her new flat and coping independently away from her family which cause her to feel afraid (1) which Freud (1909) found in 'Little Hans's' dream of his mother leaving which was interpreted as an expression of his fear of losing his mother (1). • Barbara may interpret Amy feeling abandoned and alone in her dream about being left in a shop as representing her being in a new place away from home (1) which Freud (1909) could suggest represents wanting to return home similar to Hans wanting to go back to Gmunden and spend time with his friend Mariedl (1). Accept any other appropriate response.	(4)
