Question number	Indicative content	Mark
13	AO1 = 3 marks; AO2 = 3 marks; AO3 = 3 marks Markers must apply the descriptors in line with the general marking guidance (on pages 2–3). Due to the intrinsic links between the skills, if a response evidences performance against only one trait/skill it will be for demonstrating knowledge and understanding. An answer displaying qualities of AO1 only, cannot be awarded more than the top of Level 1, no matter how strong the performance is in AO1. AO1 • Eysenck's' theory divided people into two main personality temperaments of extroversion/introversion and neurotic/stable. • A criminal tends to score high in the three dimensions of psychoticism, extroversion, and neuroticism (PEN). • The dimension of psychoticism is where people who score highly for this trait tend to be cold, hostile, and antisocial. AO2 • Bailey claimed his car theft had been for a laugh so that he could have fun with his friends, suggesting he has an extrovert personality trait. • Bailey has committed a number of offences that include the car theft, drug use and burglary, but he has not stopped his criminal behaviour despite having been to prison for these. • The lack of remorse and aggressive behaviour towards the police may indicate the criminal offending committed by Bailey is a result of him scoring highly for psychoticism. AO3 • Social Learning Theory would suggest that Bailey's dad would be a role model who Bailey observed and imitated, so Bailey's offending may be learned and not personality. • McGurk and McDougal (1981) compared 100 delinquents with 100 non-delinquents and found the delinquent group to be higher in psychoticism, extroversion, and neuroticism. • Steiner et al. (1999) showed a link between personality traits and recidivism in juvenile inmates, which may explain why habitual offenders like Bailey may not respond to punishment.	(9)

Level	Mark	Descriptor
	0	No rewardable material.
Level 1	1–3	• Demonstrates isolated elements of knowledge and understanding of a limited range of psychological ideas (AO1). • Provides little or no reference to relevant psychological ideas related to the context (AO2). • Limited attempt to deconstruct relevant psychological ideas. Limited consideration of supporting/refuting evidence, leading to generic judgements (AO3).
Level 2	4–6	• Demonstrates mostly accurate understanding of some relevant psychological ideas (AO1). • Provides some reference to relevant psychological ideas related to the context but this may be limited or lack relevance at times (AO2). • Deconstructs relevant psychological ideas using mostly logical chains of reasoning. Some consideration of supporting/refuting evidence, leading to a judgement (AO3).
Level 3	7–9	• Demonstrates accurate and thorough knowledge and understanding of relevant psychological ideas (AO1). • Provides sustained reference to relevant psychological ideas related to the context (AO2). • Deconstructs relevant psychological ideas using logical chains of reasoning. Sustained consideration of supporting/refuting evidence, showing an awareness of competing arguments, leading to a judgement (AO3).

Question number	Answer	Mark
12	One mark for accurate understanding of personality (Eysenck, 1964). One mark for exemplification of how the theory can be used to explain the scenario. For example: • Criminal personality is associated with high psychoticism, high extroversion and high neuroticism (1) so Raj may be biologically predisposed to getting into trouble and therefore unable to change his nature (1). Accept any other appropriate response.	(2)

11	One mark for identification of strength and weakness (maximum two marks). One mark for justification, which must be linked to the strength and weakness identified (maximum two marks). For example: Strength • Extraversion includes impulsivity which plausibly explains why Kylee's behaviour changed from taking an illegal drug to selling the illegal drug (1) which is supported by evidence from Rushton and Christjohn (1981) who found delinquents had higher scores for extraversion, psychoticism and neuroticism (1). Weakness • Kylee may have decided to sell the illegal drugs just to gain the monetary reward and not because of her personality (1). The reward of money would act as positive reinforcement for Kylee and therefore encourage her to repeat the drug selling behaviour (1). Accept any other appropriate response.	(4)

10	One mark for identification of a reason. One mark for reasoning/justification through the theory. For example: • Jamal may be biologically predisposed to engaging in risk taking behaviours such as getting into fights and not following the rules in school (1). Eysenck (1964) suggested that individuals who score highly on the psychoticism scale may be predisposed to engaging/likely to engage in more criminal/anti-social behaviours (1). • Jamal is displaying personality traits such as lack of empathy and aggression which is why he continues to get into fights and not follow rules. (1) Eysenck (1964) suggested that individuals who score highly on the psychoticism scale may be predisposed to engaging/likely to engage in more criminal/anti-social behaviours (1). Accept any other appropriate response.	(2)
