Question Number	Answer	Mark
11	One mark for identification of each way (maximum two marks). One mark for justification, which must be linked to the way identified (maximum two marks). For example: • Simone's behaviour would not change as she lives in a small village where her mother knows what she is doing all the time (1). Charlton (2000) found that living in a small community where there is a large amount of vigilance and supervision contributed to the lack of change in behaviour of the children (1). • Simone's behaviour would not change as she is subject to a significant amount of supervision where 'everyone knows everyone' (1). Charlton (2000) found that living in a small community where there is a large amount of vigilance and supervision contributed to the lack of change in behaviour of the children (1). • Paul may have got into trouble for the first time as he is more likely to be antisocial than Simone because he is male (1), as Charlton (2000) found that boys committed nearly four times as many antisocial acts than girls, but this did not seem to be related to the television programmes (1). Accept any other appropriate response.	(4)

10	One mark for identification of a reason. One mark for reasoning/justification through the study. For example: • Bella may behave pro-socially as she lives in a small community and the people who live in her village know her through her volunteering (1), which is supported by Charlton et al. (2000) who claimed that in the close-knit community of the island there was evidence of supervising the behaviour of children which may have contributed to children's good behaviour (1). Accept any other appropriate response.	(2)

Question number	Answer	Mark
11	One mark for identification of a reason. One mark for reasoning/justification through a study. For example: • Jack may be aware that the neighbours take note of how he behaves so he does not replicate the aggression in action movies or fighting games (1). Charlton et al. (2000) found being vigilant and supervising the behaviour of children by the community on the island may have contributed to children's good behaviour. (1). Accept any other appropriate response.	(2)
